Dear WIKIMEDIA Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Email Fundraising (Developer) Specialist opening at Wikimedia. Wikimedia's visions align with my beliefs as an ardent advocate of diversity in inclusion, peace advocacy, closing the digital-divide, and making the world a global village that it is, and also a safer place to live without any cultural or racial prejudices.

What about the work being done at Wikimedia makes me want to join Wikimedia's team?

Although, I am from a developing country, Nigeria, but that makes me understand the essentiality and the need to bridge the knowledge gap and have a multidiversed knowledge pipeline that sums up the scattered pieces of knowledge as one global asset to make informed decisions.

I have always wanted a wherewithal to participate and get involved in these missions' decision-making processes on a multinational scale and I hope Wikimedia would empower me with this role.

What experiences do I bring that will help me be successful in this role?

First and foremost, having studied Information and Communication Science, I have a very solid understanding in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, internet/telecommunication, and Linux operating system. I presently work as a Technical Support Officer here in Nigeria, and I have previously had experience in content-writing with a good vocal and excellent verbal communication skills.

I am one of the few successful participants, that participated in the 2021 World Bank Group Youth Summit themed: Resilient Recovery for People and Planet. This workshop equipped with access to knowledge and experience from international professionals on the said theme, and I was certified on completion.

I hope Wikimedia would empower me add to my experiences by offering me this role of Email Fundraising (Developer) Specialist .

On the final note, with my I.T know-how, communication skill, and unquenchable thirst for growth and formal experiences in a multicultural ecosystem, I am confident that I will be an asset to the continued growth of the Wiki Team. Thank you for your time, I am looking forward to a positive feedback from you.

Sincerely,
MUSA A. AI-MUBARAQ
